APHRODISIAS

Aphrodisias was named after Aphrodite, the goddess of love and beauty.

It is an ancient city famous for the worship of Aphrodite in the Roman era, and today it is one of the most important archaeological values of Türkiye with its well-preserved monumental structures.

Having the common name of many ancient cities dedicated to the goddess Aphrodite, the city, which was founded in the 5th century BC, was developed during the Roman Empire into an important center of art, especially sculpture, between the 1st century BC and the 5th century AD. It was famous for the ceremonies held for the goddess.

Standing out as one of the most important historical values of our country, the Ancient City of Aphrodisias welcomes guests within the borders of Aydın, one of the most beautiful provinces of the Aegean Region. Especially the fact that it was located in the valley where the Dandalaz Stream, which is a natural wonder, flows, adds a different beauty to the ancient city.

Moreover, with its history dating back to the 5th century BC, in 2017 it was included in the UNESCO World Heritage List.

It is one of our ancient cities, which was distinguished by the well-known discourse of the Roman emperor Augustus: "I chose this place for myself as a city out of all Asian lands".

Bodrum, with its unique beauties and mysterious coves is a fascinating place that always impresses.

As Cevat Şakir, the famous novel and story writer known for his great love for Bodrum, which touches the heart with its unequalled beauty, says in his poem;

"When you come to the top of the slope, you will see Bodrum,
Do not think that you will leave as you came,
So were those before you,

JOY OF BODRUM DISCOVER BODRUM

A City of Endless Summer

Bodrum, a city on the Aegean coast of Türkiye, is known for its stunning beaches, crystal-clear waters, and vibrant night life. However, Bodrum is more than just a beach resort. It is also a city with a rich history and culture.

The ancient city of Halicarnassus used to be located here, and its ruins still can be seen today. Bodrum is also home to the Bodrum Castle, a 15th-century fortress that now houses the Bodrum Museum of Underwater Archaeology. This museum is home to a collection of shipwrecks and artifacts that have been recovered from the Aegean Sea.

In addition to its historical and cultural attractions, Bodrum also offers a variety of activities for visitors to enjoy. There are plenty of opportunities for swimming, sunbathing, and water sports. You can also go hiking or biking in the surrounding hills, or take a boat trip to explore the nearby islands.

No matter what you are looking for in a vacation, Bodrum has something to offer. It is a city where you can relax on the beach, explore ancient ruins, or party the night. And with its mild climate, Bodrum is a great place to visit year-round.

The Carian Way is a 820-kilometer trekking route covering the provinces of Muğla and Aydın and consists of four stages. The first stage starts from Dalyan and ends in the Cistern and is 38 km. The second stage starts from the ancient city of Gerga and ends in Ören and is 36 km. The third and fourth routes are within the borders of the district of Bodrum.

THE WINDMILLS OF BODRUM

The windmills of Bodrum are the symbols of this district. Windmills in Bodrum were first built in the 1850s on hills with plenty of wind.

The windmills, which can be seen in the Bodrum and Milas districts of the Muğla Province were mostly made out of cut or rubble stone with cylindrical bodies. Their top being covered with a wooden conical roof. Wood was also used to cover the floor of the windmills. The interior, illuminated by small crenelated windows can be accessed through simple round-arched doors, revealing a millstone and a mechanism to grind wheat on the inside. Sometimes, flour warehouses were built next to or even inside the mills.

The sea view in the region is magnificent. Here you can enjoy nature accompanied by magnificent views and take wonderful photos during your Bodrum holiday. The region is also ideal for strolls in nature, trekking, and cycling tours. Every year, millions of tourist fall in love with this breathtaking region.

Have you ever wondered how life had been in Bodrum before it became a popular touristic spot?

BODRUM ANTIQUE THEATER

The Bodrum Antique Theater is a magnificent building that dates back to the 4th century B.C. It has all the characteristics of the theaters preceding the Roman Imperial Age.

Among the interesting features of the theater are the sacrificial altar for Dionysus and the holes between some of the seats that may have been used to install some kind of canopy.

In the cave section, a distance of 40 centimeters is left between each seat, and the theater has a capacity of 13.000 people with 55 rows, 30 of them at the bottom and 25 at the top. The rows of seats in the theater are divided into 12 sections with 11 vertical stairs.

The theater is one of the historical beautiful buildings of Bodrum, with a unique architecture that takes you back in time. It is definitely one of the favourite sights of every visitor to Bodrum.

THE FISHERMAN OF HALICARNASSUS

You hear his name and/or see his picture wherever you go. Although he passed away in 1973, it feels as if he is still living in Bodrum

Who is the Fisherman of Halicarnassus

Why has Cevat Şakir Kabaağaçlı become a synonym to Bodrum'

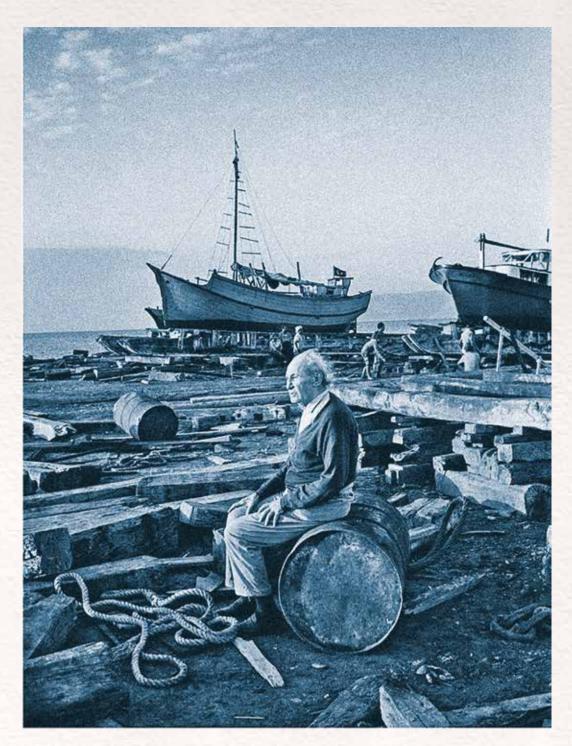

The short answer is that Cevat Şakir Kabaağaçlı is a well-known author who loved Bodrum. But the history is a bit more complicated than that

His first arrival to Bodrum was pure coincidence and not in a great way

Cevat Şakir Kabaağaçlı was born in Crete on April 17, 1890. He moved to Istanbul with his family when he was 5 and studied at Robert College After his studies there, he went to Oxford University in England. When he returned to Istanbul in 1918, he began working in journalism. He wrote articles, drew cover pictures, and did illustrations and cartoons until one of his articles, ""How do those sentenced to death in prison go to be hanged even though they know their end?" got him a three-year exile in the Bodrum Castle.

During this time in the peninsula, he fell in love with Bodrum, at that time, it was only a tiny fisherman's village. The people, the culture, and the nature all played an important part in his love and he dedicated his next 25 years to loving and improving this place.

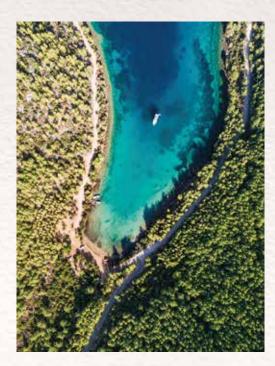

Although he had to leave during the difficult years of the Second World War, he never forgot Bodrum and Bodrum will never forget him either You can still see some of his belongings in the Bodrum Maritime Museum

With its rich culture and fascinating history, Asia has always been one of the most favoured and attractive destinations and food has been another highly considerable element of its appeal.

When Asian cuisine is mentioned, most people can conjure a vivid image inside their heads. This image is usually accompanied by the rituals that go with it; delicious sushi that is enriched with soy sauce, ramen noodles that are wrapped around chopsticks, the exciting smell of the Robata grill... It seems like Asians have long discovered how the involvement of the senses supplements taste. Changing the texture of food to delight the taste buds or adding the excitement of sound by the sizzling of the food has been essential to Asian cuisine for ages.

Our meat species: *Black Angus *Simmental

After the meat arrives, it is left to rest for 28 days with the dry age method between 0-3 degrees and 70% humidity. During this period, Himalayan salt particles are added to keep the humidity stable, without touching the meat itself.

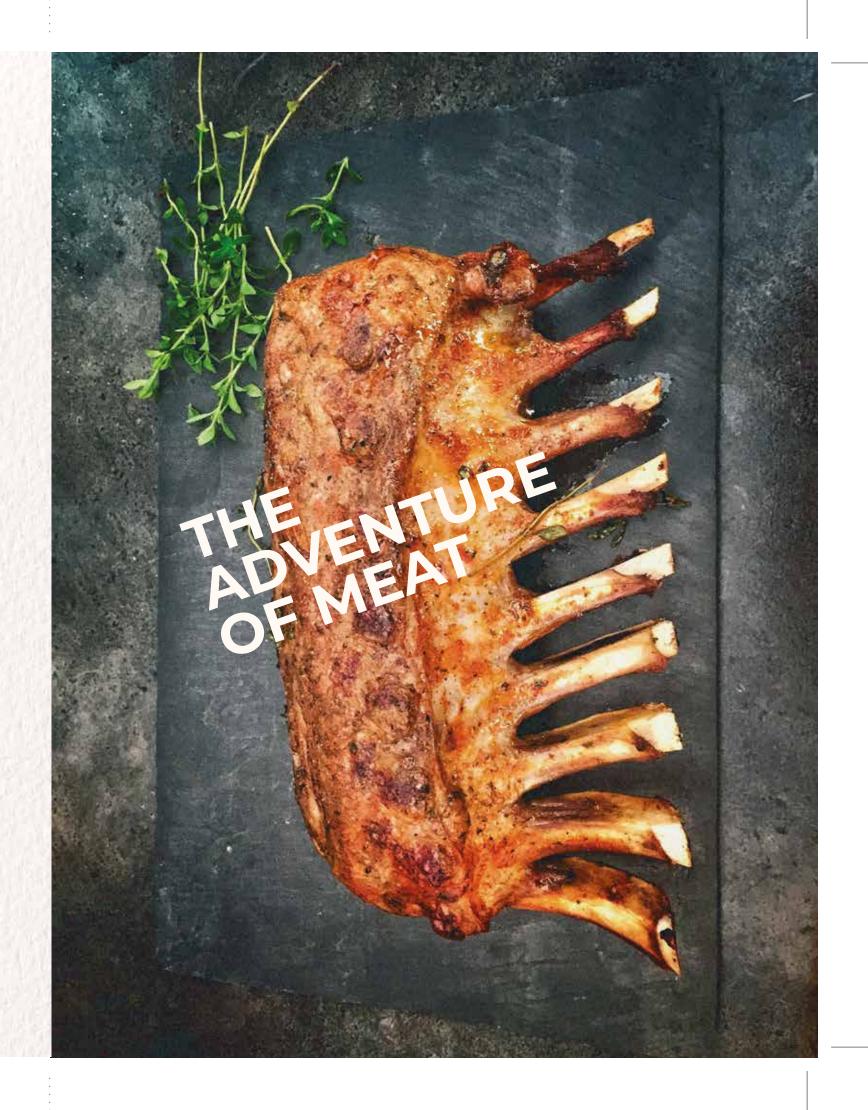

At the end of 28 days, the dried areas of the meat are cut and discarded. The remaining portion is processed using only special crystal sea salt from England and Turkish spices.

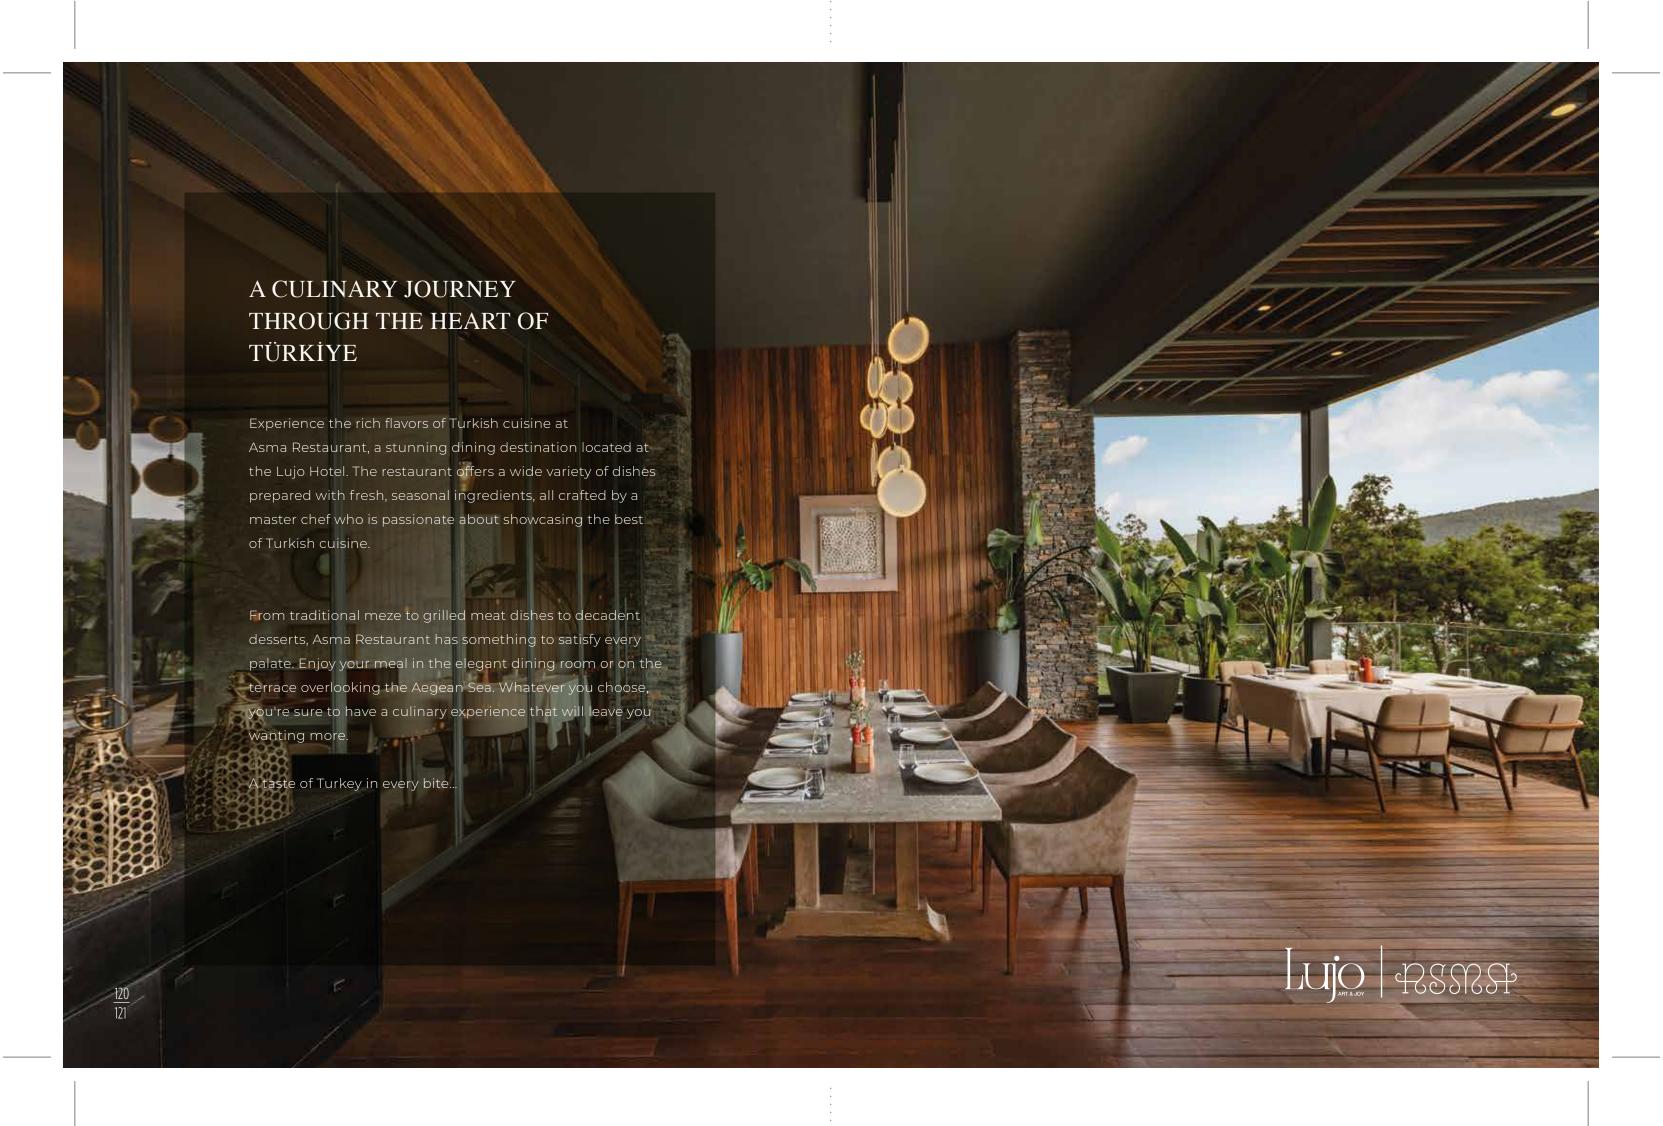

The meat is cooked with special oak charcoal and a Robata grill. The degree and cooking time of the meat are adjusted according to the meat and your preference (rare, medium, or well-done). Once ready, the meat is served by the chef himself in a special flambé cart.

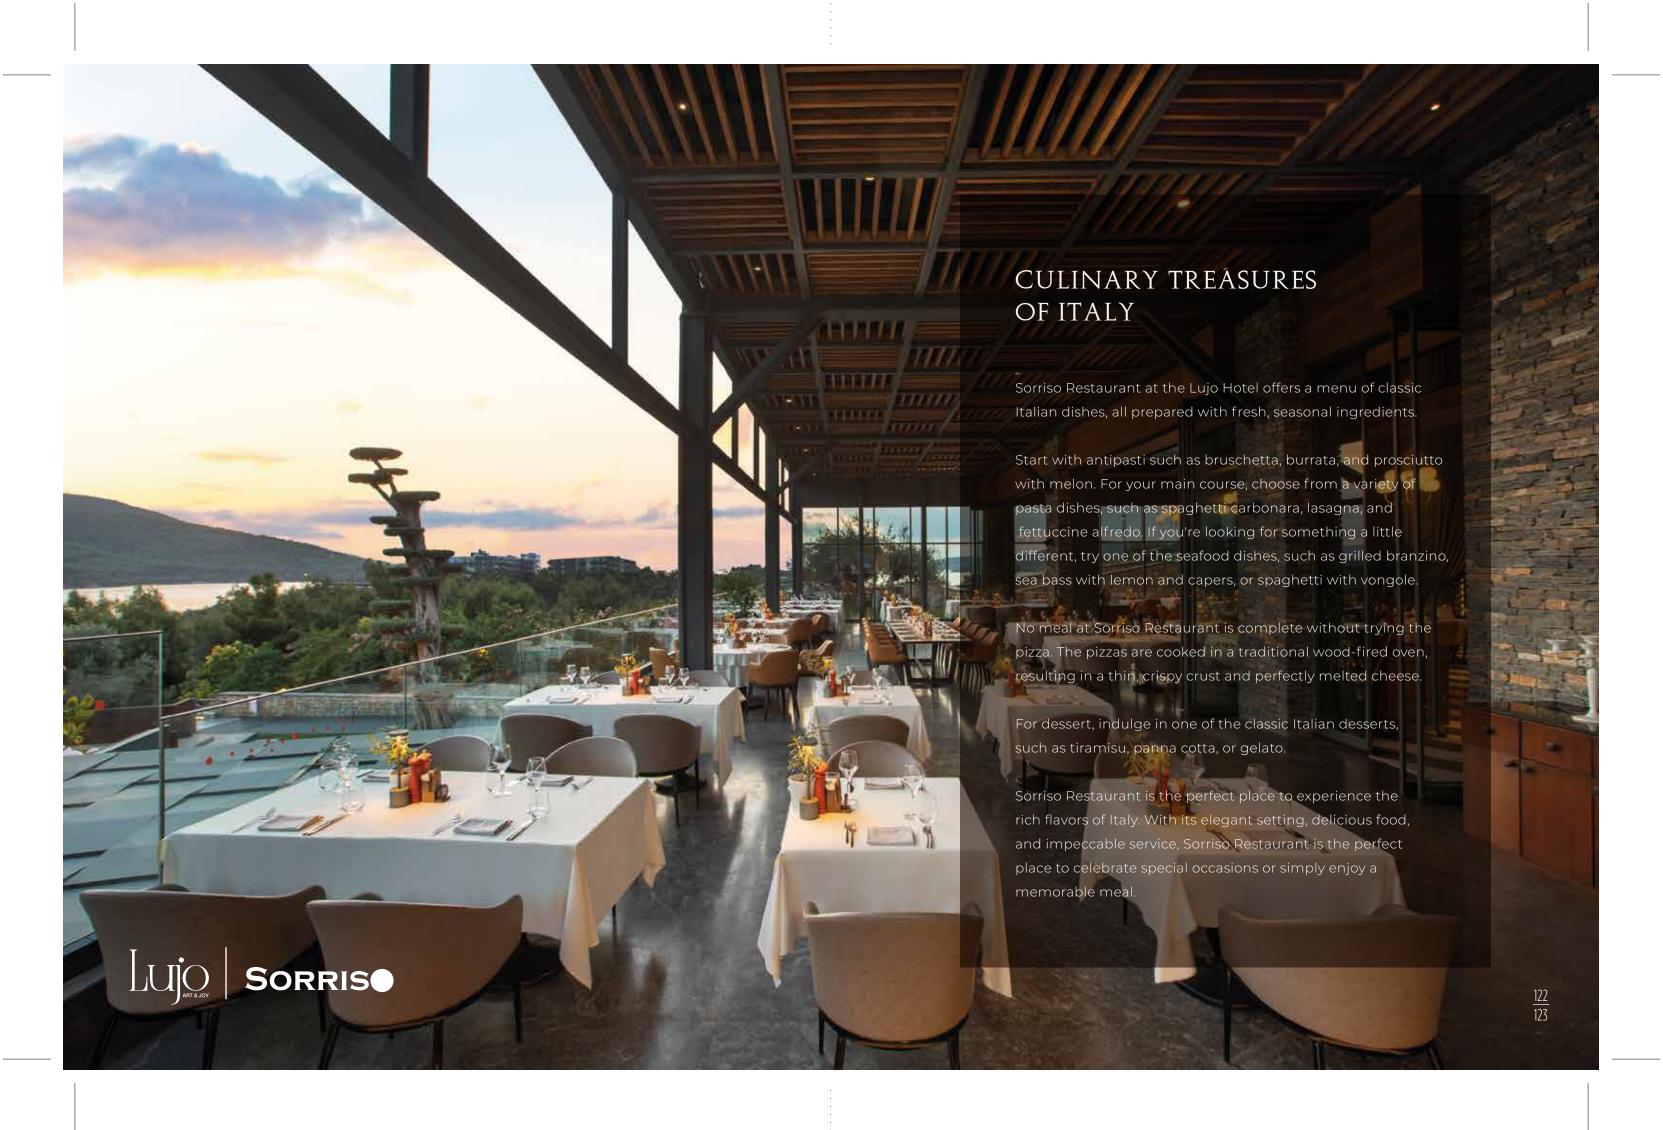

How should meat be prepared?

For a truly gourmet experience, our chef Tunahan recommends that you eat your steak rare-cooked.

This will allow the meat to be in its juiciest, tenderest, and most delicious form.

Tunahan ALTIN

Lujo Bodrum Executive Chef

How did your passion for food begin? Can we get to know you briefly?

I have always had a passion for food. I don't remember how it started, but I have always kept my passion alive by working with good chefs at the right time and in the right place, and I have always forced myself to go one step further. Let me tell you about myself briefly. I started working in the tourism sector in the Front Office Department and my interest in the kitchen eventually led me just there. Over time, my interest turned into a passion. After working in various 5- star facilities, I started working at Lujo Hotel in 2018..

How do you evaluate the progress of Türkiye in gastronomy?

In recent years, there has been an increase in the number of trained and qualified personnel, with an increase in interest in the culinary profession and the opening of culinary and gastronomy departments in universities as well as private courses. I believe that with the right project and a systematic future plan, Türkiye will soon get the place and respect it deserves in the world of qastronomy, albeit late.

In addition, as the first step of this, the "Michelin" guide included Istanbul on the list for the first time, enabling everyone to gain the motivation and ambition to push their work one step further. Additionally, the difficulties experienced in importing pandemic-affected products to our country can be considered an opportunity for domestic producers.

Well-planned support and training in the agricultural sector should be able to help revive stripes of highly fertile agricultural zones, where high-quality products can be grown to supply both restaurants and hotels.

The production of foods, that help reveal the creativity of us chefs should be increased while the monopolization of certain product ranges should simultaneously be prevented.

How would you describe your flavours? What is your favourite dish that you love to prepare?

If I may, I would like to answer these two questions together.

I like to create simple dishes that combine complex flavours, quality products, and the right techniques. Since my early years in this profession, I have mainly used seafood as my primary product and I have spent a lot of time improving myself in this regard.

It might seem a little political, but I consider every plate I create my favourite one, and I proudly serve it to my guests. But if I have to name a plate in particular, the "Lobster Cappuccino" we made for the Secret Restaurant this year is one of my favourites.

What does the gastronomic experience mean to you as a chef at Lujo?

One of the most important elements of the holiday experience we promise in Lujo is gastronomy. It makes me proud to lead such a team.

We are trying to make every visit unforgettable for our guests with the kitchen team we recruited this year, young but experienced and innovative chefs, and our trained service team in our restaurants with 9 different concepts. Apart from our restaurants, we also have a Patisserie section and cafes where the daily and carefully prepared products of our Patisserie team are served.

We also update our menus by paying attention to the seasonal and timely use of products. In this way, we help our guests to have new experiences during their stays at different times in the same season.

Mevlüt ÖZKAYA

Mürver Restaurant Executive Chef

How would you describe your flavours? What is your favourite dish that you love to prepare?

A good dish cannot be created with good food in mind. Sometimes a story, an excitement, sometimes even the knotgrass you buy from a village inspires. We need to be able to derive good meals with ingredients that have a story and stories from the past. There are dozens of details such as catching the right season or the product information. For this reason, good food may not be cooked with a few tips. We squeeze the juice of raw celery and cook it on a low fire. We add Finike orange, sour apple, and roasted anise and serve it with roasted hazelnuts as a final touch. The bluefish we cooked with spices goes into the cold smoker. Next to it comes the Bosnian-style pickle that we prepare in the fall. We serve it together with roasted chard and smoked paprika. And more... Generally, Mürver Restaurant is a perfect match for refined palates.

What does the gastronomic experience mean to you as a chef at Lujo?

To me, Lujo is an example of a very enjoyable culinary adventure. Different restaurant concepts allow the preparation of complex dishes for different tastes and also according to guests' special requests. It is a true pleasure to create the diversity and menu content that goes with the characteristics of each restaurant setting.

How did your passion for food begin? Can we get to know you briefly?

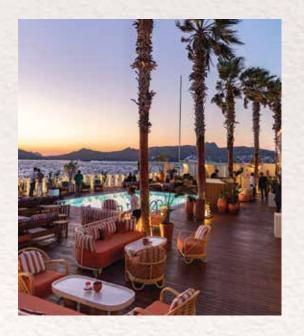

I started my professional training at the Antalya Tourism and Hotel Management High School, afterwards, I went to the Afyon Kocatepe University, from which I graduated with a Culinary Arts Associate Degree. In my childhood, my great-grandfather owned a dairy and I grew up very close to animals, cheese, and milk. By the way, my family also has a farm. Therefore, life on a farm has always excited me. Being a member of such a family led me to become a cook. It was very enjoyable to watch my grandmother in the kitchen when I was a child and to learn from her. In short, I can say that everything started with her. Since 2010, I have worked and collected professional experience in various restaurants.

How do you evaluate the progress of Türkiye in gastronomy?

Türkiye has come a long way in recent years to become the best in the world in terms of taste, both due to its highly-professional chefs and its geographical location. In addition, gastro-tourism, which reveals different stories and different experiences to travelers, sheds light on the cultural heritage and identity of different regions, offering visitors different perspectives. For this reason, the historical and cultural structure of gastronomic tourism is important for Turkey.

WHISKEY BY COUNTRIES

SCOTCH WHISKY

Scotch whiskey is produced only in Scotland. Although it is imitated all over the world, the same characteristics can never be reached.

Scotland's climate, water, barley, and peat all play an indispensable part in the making of Scotch whiskey and they cannot be mimicked.

IRISH WHISKEY

A kind of whiskey produced in Ireland. Compared to Scotch Whisky, Irish whiskey does not have such a smoky scent since it doesn't spend as much time on fire. It is mixed with other grains and its density is less than that of other whiskeys.

During the aging period of Scotch and Irish types alike, old sherry barrels are used. Due to the usage of coal instead of peat during distillation, there is no smoke odor.

AMERICAN WHISKEY

According to American law, a Whiskey has to contain 51% or more corn to be categorized as an American whiskey. American whiskeys are very alterent from Irish and Scottish whiskeys in all aspects. Instead of barley malt usually corn, rye, wheat, and non-malted barley are used.

And they are distilled in giant-column distillates called "Coffey Still", which provide continuous distillation, rather than the pear-shaped coppers called "Pot Still". They are aged in charred oak barrels that are used only once.

BOURBON WHISKEY

This is yet another American whiskey. The only difference is that it is exclusively produced in the state of Kentucky. A Whiskey carrying the same characteristics does not quality to be called a Bourbon Whiskey unless it is produced in Kentucky.

In the Bourbon region there is an abundance of corn and their spring waters are very soft. According to the law, the Bourbons may be bottled after a minimum of 2 years of aging in charred oak barrels.

Quality companies usually let their Whiskey age for 4 years. They get their distinctive vanilla scent and taste, their dark and reddish color from these charred barrels.

TENNESSEE WHISKEY

The Americans categorize and claim their regional whiskeys as the French do with their Champagne. And even protect it with the law.

Let's start by getting to know you. How did you get started in this industry?

I have been working in both the kitchen and bar areas of I have been working in both the kitchen and bar areas of this sector for 12 years in total. I have been interested in culinary arts since my childhood, and then I turned my Turkish direction to the world of bars and mixology. I received training both abroad and in global places in Türkiye. At the same time, I continued to improve myself by working in the best restaurants and bars in Türkiye.

How would you evaluate the development of Turkey in

We have gained very good momentum in recent years. The support of the brands has brought us to better points and continues to do so. Mixology is a special field where you have to use your creativity, which contains many details, to the fullest. I and all our friends in the industry have been working hard for years to bring Türkiye's beautiful and special tastes to the fore. In recent years, we have been seeing and living good examples of this together.

What are the trends of the cocktail world this year?

Let's not say this year. All hand and homemade materials and products have been very trendy in the last few years. The definition from field to busbar may be correct here. We have such a rich geography that we are very satisfied to use it from this perspective.

Can we hear from you about your favourite cocktail and

My favourite cocktail is "The Sound of Lavender". Its story started with a dream I had at the seaside for its memorable appearance and to set a sign.

What comes to mind when you think of Lujo and mixology?

We can say that world-class work is being done there, using original and special materials. All of them are colourful and unusual, as befits Lujo.

My brother, who was studying law at university, was working as a bartender as a side job. I also started working with him. And I loved that job. At that time, I decided one day to do this job professionally and at world standards. And now it makes me happy to have succeeded.

How would you evaluate the development of Türkiye in Türkiye is in a very rich position with its products as well as many other countries. Together with my teammates, I blend these products with new techniques and present them to consumers. A few years later, we will certainly be on a much higher level.

What are the trends of the cocktail world this year?

In recent years, studies on sustainability have continued both in Türkiye and globally. Another trend is the waste-free kitchen. And carefully crafted cocktails with these ingredients.

Can we hear from you about your favourite cocktail and its story?

It's a cocktail that I designed in my head, maybe even dreamed of. It was the purple eggplant and agave cocktail that I presented at the world-class finale.

What comes to mind first when you think of lujo and

Being at a point where you will gain new experiences with its own unique concept and colourful content.

Julieta Sgarlatta

Can you tell us a bit about yourself and your career?

Julieta Sgarlatta:

I'm Julleta, I'm from Argentina. I started my career as a dancer, and in the last 5 years, I've moved into production and direction. I've worked in Türkiye for 4 years as a dancer, director, and producer. I've also worked in Germany and Dubai, as well as in Argentina, where I've had the opportunity to produce some shows. I have a career in contemporary dance and composition.

How would you describe the difference and uniqueness of this project compared to conventional works?

Julieta Sgarlatta:

If I compare this opportunity to commercial works, I think the most interesting part is that we're working as a team, and we created a creative team. My creative team, come on up! Yes, you, you, you, you, you. The creative team includes choreographers, designers, and makeup artists. Agos is my fight-hand woman, and Annais our designer. They've been working with me from the beginning, creating the universe of the shows and the concept for the shows.

How did you feel when you were first offered the Lujo Performing Arts project?

Julieta Sgarlatta:

The first tlme I heard about the project, I went to the hotel's medla to understand □ts style. I □ked□t because□t's moding away from the commerdal style that we're used to seding□n the toutlsm□ndustry.

Can you tell us about your team? How many people are there, and what were the criteria for selecting them? What kind of Performing Arts team does Lujo have now?

Agostina Bini

Agostina Bini:

I'm a dancer, and I also help organize the dance crew, with production, and with whatever elsels needed. I'm the middleman between production and the dancers.

I do a little lit of everything.

Julieta Sgarlatta:

My choreography team, Joaco, Sol, they're choreographers with Alex, who's not here today. Agusis our dance captain. They're really important to the project because our project is based on dance performances. We also have artists, but 100% of our showincludes dancers, so they're a really big part of the project.

Okay, Joaco, what do you want to say about the project?

Joaco Fassi:

Honestly, this is a unique experience. When Juli and I spoke in January about the project and the hotel, I started researching Lujo on social media and online. I realized that this was a project that would allow us to develop each one's creative potential to the maximum. Since Lujo is looking for different things, what's new, what's innovative, what's extraordinary...

As an art st, □t's a n ce challenge.

Agustina Vargas:

From an Interpretative perspective, It's truly hard to find places that allow you to express your creativity and emotions along ide. So when I learned that we were going to do this, I was very happy. Since I started danding and working, I wanted something like this. A place where I could express my emotions and creativity.

Julieta Sgarlatta:

For me, the most nspling thing about the projects that we're working as a creative team, all on the same level, and everyone sting ther opinion and the deas. That's how you create something really special.

In the creative team we also have makeup artists, Caio and Lina.

We call them the "strawberry on the dessert" because they are the last touch to complete the concepts of the shows.

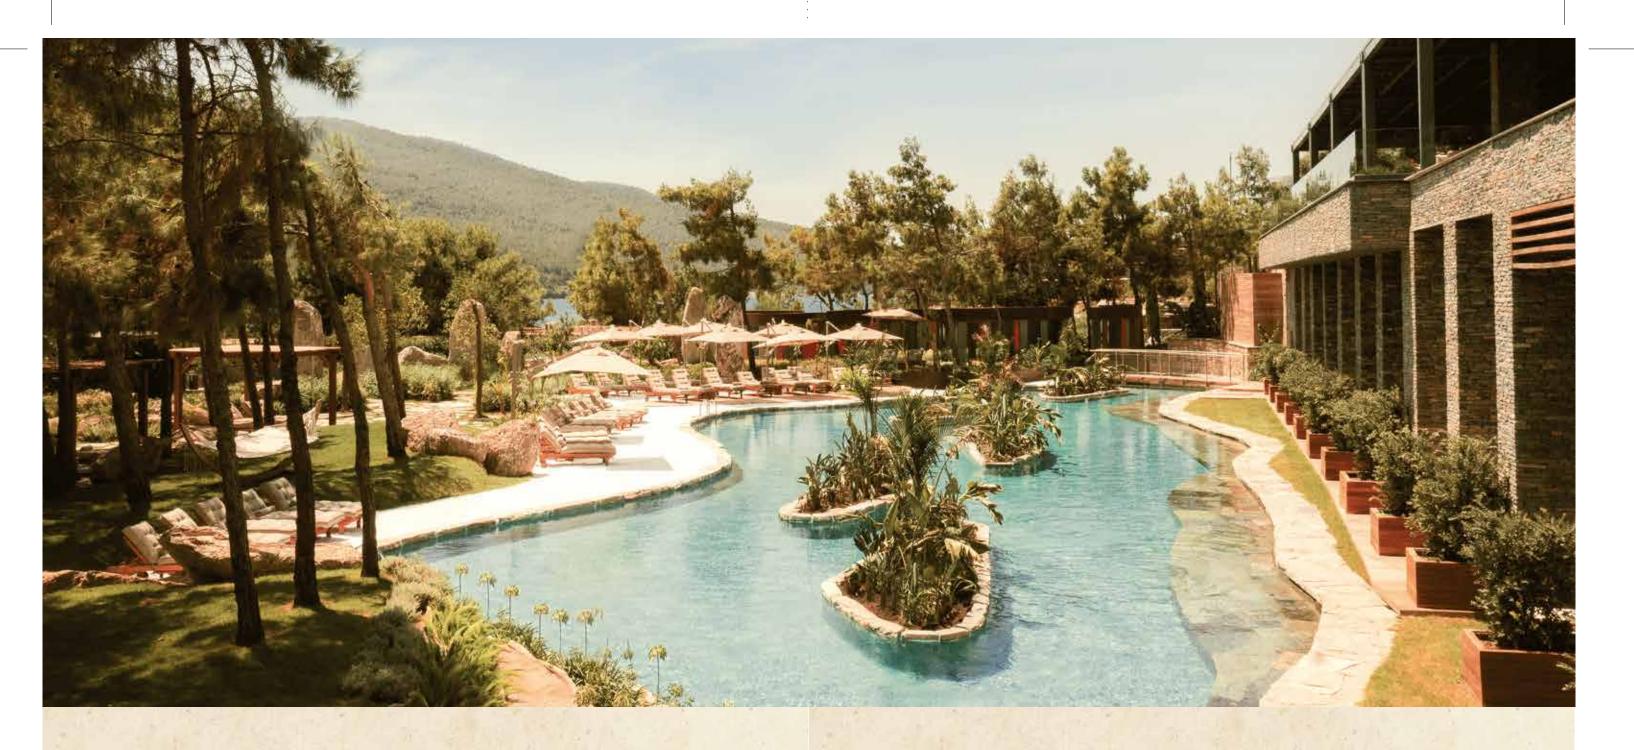

Sol Gilgorri:

It's an Incredible proposal because It's an opportunity that allows you to fly high from the very concept of the Idea. They allowed us to fly over our Imagination. For us artists, to have such a space and to be able to express all of our creativity of svery difficult to find. We're In a dream job where we can create without any Infits.

5 STYLING TIPS

1 Layer at least twice

Anyone can throw a jacket on over a top and though that's something, you'll instantly stand out as a "fashion girl" when you go the extra mile. Once is nice, but go for twice or thrice. Ha!

Wear accessories in ways you wouldn't expect

Earrings and necklaces. Yep, it's cute, but everyone does that! But if you're looking for a styling tip that makes you look unique, this is it! The sky is the limit!

3 Tuck in your shirt

This isn't groundbreaking, but it's something. It creates a more elevated and stylish look. However, each body is different, as you know, so experiment with a full tuck or half-tuck to see if this is a style that flatters and is one that you like!

4 Wear a dress as a jacket

So many wardrobe possibilities open up when you start wearing your clothes in new ways. A button dress becomes a light jacket and cool layering piece when worn over an outfit!

5 Mix dressy + casual

When you take something casual like track pants and pair it with something fancy like a blazer, fashion magic happens! The same goes for mixing feminine + masculine as well.

TIPS FOR HEALTHY SKIN

Protect yourself from the sun

One of the most important ways to take care of your skin is to protect it from the sun. A lifetime of sun exposure can cause wrinkles, age spots and other skin problems - as well as increase the risk of skin cancer.

For the most complete sun protection:

- •Use sunscreen. Use a broad-spectrum sunscreen with an SPF of at least 15. Apply sunscreen generously, and reapply every two hours- or more often if you're swimming or perspiring.
- •Seek shade. Avoid the sun between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., when the sun rays are strongest.
- •Wear protective clothing. Cover your skin with tightly woven long-sleeved shirts, long pants and wide-brimmed hats. Also consider laundry additives, which give clothing an additional layer of ultraviolet protection for a certain number of washings, or special sun-protective clothing which is specifically designed to block ultraviolet rays.

Eat a healthy diet

A healthy diet can help you look and feel your best. Eat plenty of fruits, vegetables, whole grains and lean proteins.

The association between diet and acne isn't clear-but some research suggests that a diet rich in fish oil or fish oil supplements and low in unhealthy fats and processed or refined carbohydrates might promote younger looking skin. Drinking plenty of water helps keep your skin hydrated.

Treat your skin gently

Daily cleansing and shaving can take a toll on your skin. To keep it gentle:

- •Limit bath time. . Hot water and long showers or baths remove oils from your skin. Limit your bath or shower time, and use warm rather than hot water.
- Avoid strong soaps. Strong soaps and detergents can strip oil from your skin. Instead, choose mild cleansers.
- •Shave carefully. To protect and lubricate your skin, apply shaving cream, lotion or gel before shaving. For the closest shave, use a clean, sharp razor. Shave in the direction the hair grows, not against it.
- •Pat dry. After washing or bathing, gently pat or blot your skin dry with a towel so that some moisture remains on your skin.
- •Moisturize dry skin. . If your skin is dry, use a moisturizer that fits your skin type. For daily use, consider a moisturizer that contains SPF.

Manage stress

Uncontrolled stress can make your skin more sensitive and trigger acne breakouts and other skin problems. To encourage healthy skin - and a healthy state of mind - take steps to manage your stress.

Get enough sleep, set reasonable limits, scale back your to-do list and make time to do the things you enjoy. The results might be more dramatic than you expect.

Aqua Peel FACIAL

The Aqua Peel facial is a multi-step deep cleansing and rejuvenating facial treatment that uses special solutions to cleanse the skin and infuse it with antioxidants.

The treatment begins with a 3-step skin cleansing and rejuvenating treatment using specialty solutions. The tough, dead skin cells on the surface of your skin are first exfoliated and removed to expose the newer skin underneath. At this time, the blackheads and whiteheads clogging your pores are removed in a vacuum-powered deep cleansing step.

The third step in the AquaPeel uses an anti-aging, skin-calming solution to rejuvenate and heal. Finally, your treatment ends off with deep skin infusion of a series of antioxidant solutions.

After the treatment, you will notice firmer, smoother skin that looks visibly cleaner, fresher, and more rejuvenated!

Don't overcook your meat

By now most people know that chefs don't recommend well-done steak because when it's rare, medium, or at least medium-well, it is much juicier, more delicious, and tender. Turns out overcooking meat might make it form and release harmful compounds, as well. At Lujo our chefs will make sure you get your steak just the way you want it, but at home, beware of overcooking.

Load up on vitamin D

Use extra virgin olive oil

Not only is it one of the healthiest vegetable oils available, but it also tastes delicious! This goldmine packed with powerful antioxidants that can fight inflammation is the Mediterranean's favorite. Enjoy the finest at Lujo and get some of it for family and friends.

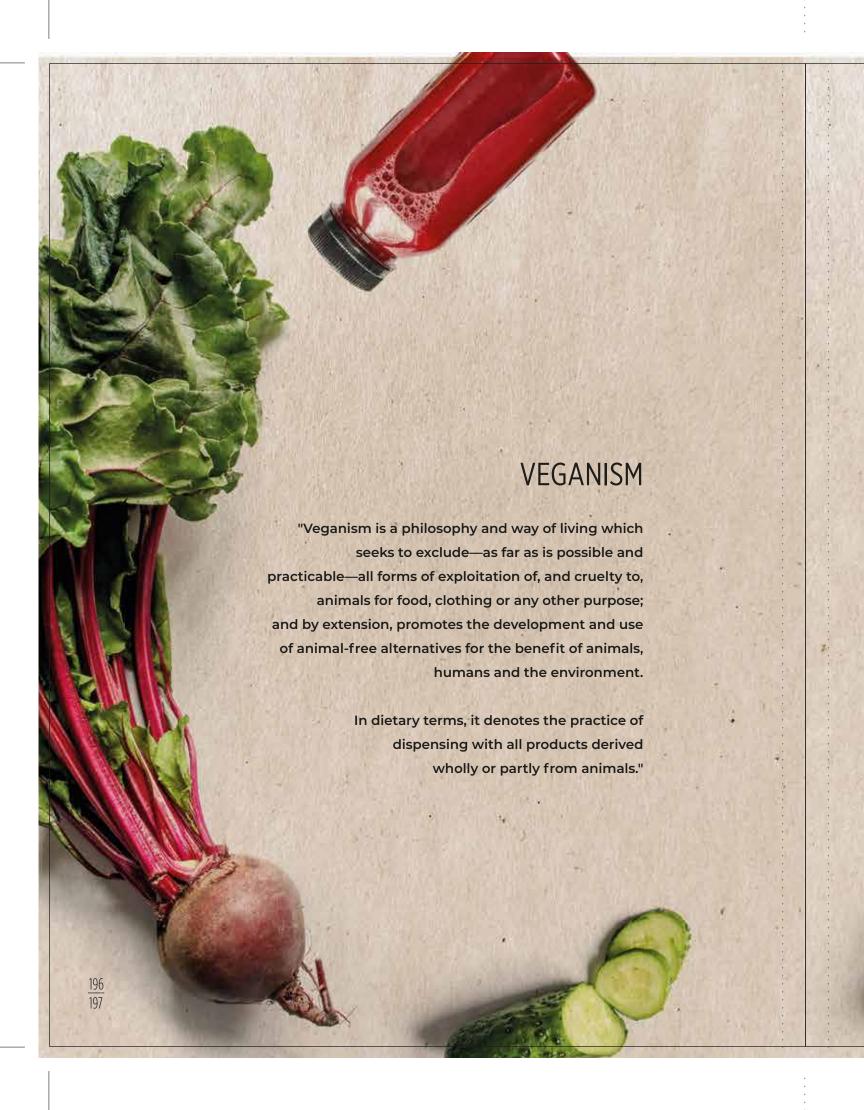

Herbs and spices add both to taste and health

Most chefs' secret is the various herbs and spices they use in their recipes. These delicious underrated secret weapons can also help your well-being. Don't be afraid to try new combinations to discover their power.

There are many ways to embrace vegan living. Yet one thing all vegans have in common is a plant-based diet avoiding all animal products such as meat (including fish, shellfish, and insects), dairy, eggs, and honey - as well as avoiding animal-de- rived materials, products tested on animals, and places that use animals for entertainment.

Although the vegan diet was defined early in The Vegan Society's beginnings in 1944, it was as late as 1949 before Leslie J Cross pointed out that the society lacked a definition of veganism. He suggested, "the principle of the emancipation of animals from exploitation by man". This is later clarified as "to seek an end to the use of animals by man for food, commodities, work, hunting, vivisection, and by all other uses involving exploitation of animal life by man".

The society was first registered as a charity in August 1964, but its assets were later transferred to a new charity when it also became a limited company in December 1979. The definition of veganism and the charitable objects of the society were amended and refined over the years. By the winter of 1988, the current definition was in use - although the phrasing has changed slightly over the years.

A great deal - you'll soon find a whole new world of exciting foods and flavours opening up to you. A vegan diet is richly diverse and comprises all kinds of fruits, vegetables, nuts, grains, seeds, beans, and pulses - all of which can be prepared in endless combinations that will ensure you're never bored.

From curry to cake, pasties to pizzas, all your favourite things can be suitable for a vegan diet if they're made with plant-based ingredients.

Vegans avoid exploiting animals for any purpose, with compassion being a key reason many choose a vegan lifestyle. From accessories and clothing to make-up and bathroom items, animal products and products tested on animals are found in more places than you might expect. Fortunately, nowadays there are affordable and easily-sourced alternatives to just about everything. With over 60,000 products and services registered with our Vegan Trademark alone, living a vegan lifestyle has never been easier.
